This authority in the Board of Elections in my view justifies action by the Board with respect to adopting regulations to prevent confusion on the part of the public as between the official ballot and any sample ballot, as set forth in subsections (a), (b), and (c) of section 903 of the General Regulations, relating to the type of paper on which sample ballots are to be printed, requiring them to be prominently marked with the word "Sample" or words "Sample Ballot", and prohibiting them from containing any matter which states or implies that the sample ballots are official ballots. To this extent, therefore, I am of the view that the adoption of such regulations as are contained in subsections (d) and (e) of section 903 of the General Regulations is beyond the authority of the Board of Elections.

I am of the view that the action of the Board of Elections in adopting subsections (d) and (e) of section 903 of the General Regulations is also invalid on constitutional grounds, as being an unlawful abridgment of the freedom of speech guaranteed by the First Amendment, and possibly the freedom of the press also guaranteed by that amendment. These regulations prohibit sample ballots, no matter where, when, and how distributed, from referring to the political party affiliation of a candidate or from stating that any candidate is endorsed or opposed by a political party or by a local committee of a political party. Conceivably, this prohibition would preclude a speaker at a private meeting of the members of a political party or of the local committee of a

Congressman Niggs:

There are twenty seven Raffle shops located here in the District, and not one of them employ colored in any capacity. One shop in particular is located at 14th and Park Rd, N. W. next to the Hot Shoppe, and is almost compleatly supported by colored.

Also I'd like to get one of those lapel buttons like Niggs had on us we want to Kennedy's office.

You may want to give Al a lapel button too. Good publicity, but I think the Post should be used as well because of the money was won't get from white people who want to help, but can't get themselves carrying a sign. The same goes for a lot of Negroes too.

After writing the first page of this letter I called the Post to get a rate and was told:

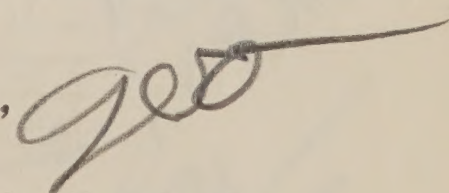

We should get a "political rate" which is cheaper than the regular commercail rate. It's $1.09 per line with 14 lines per inch. For an inch and a half, one column ad it would cost about $21 per insertion with no reduction for long-term .

If you go along with this I'll pay $10 of the first ad and man you don't know what that means to me with a young baby. I just ^{to hospital} paid $417/for a caesarian after having paid $250 in advance to the doctor who now wants $115 more because it was caesarian, plus about $250 in other medical costs along.

Also I'd like to get one of those lapel buttons like Rimsky had on as we went to Kennedy's office.

You may want to give Afro thead business because of their good publicity, but I think the Post should be used as well because of the money you would get from white people whu want to help, but can't see themselves carrying a sign. The same goes for a lot of Negroes too.

Best regards,

PS - You have to pick your day carefully for the ad and request the section of the paper you want. If you want me to handle this I will, but I work evenings when you have your All ^Souls Meetings.

PSS-- Sanding notices of picketing by mail helps remind people to get on the line. It would help me get out there.

Julius,

It seems to me that a program of regular advertising in a prominent part of the Washington Post and the Afro -- properly worded -- should supply a continuous inflow of money needed for live ins and legal expenses.

I haven't check with the papers but I'm sure the cost of the adm would be returned in donations and a long-term agreement would cut the cost of the ad.

I suggest the Post, knowing that you and I both have had trouble with them edictorially, becuae I know the readership of the Post is wide and rather liberal Even if the Post itself falls short so often.

How about something like this:

Hon. John. L. McMillan
Chairman, House District Committee
U.S. House of Representatives
Washington, D.C.

My name is Caroline P. Bennett, and I live at 2717 - 17th St. N.E., Washington, D.C. I am substituting for Julius W. Hobson, Chairman of the Washington Congress of Racial Equality, more commonly known as Washington CORE.

We want Home Rule. We want it as soon as possible, as completely as possible. We want, to put it simply, to have as full and detailed a control over our civic affairs as is enjoyed and exercised by any other citizens of the United States.

We do not care what you put in the Bill about the titles and functions of our local officers, or their numbers, so long as the Bill also contains provision for us to amend and change it as we see fit. All we insist on now is that we be permitted to get started as quickly as possible on managing our own affairs. We recognize your responsibility for initiating Home Rule with a workable government; we would not saddle you with the responsibility of fixing our system of government for all time to come.

We do not think it should be necessary to say why we want Home Rule. Nor do we think it necessary to try to prove that our affairs will be better handled if we can elect our own officials. We hope that will be the case, of course, but we want Home Rule even if it means the kind of corruption and inefficiency that mars the civic affairs of so many of the country's large cities.

We feel that as Americans we have a right to rule ourselves, and we want our rights. We are not interested in earning them or deserving them, we just want to have them, now.

Respectfully submitted,

HOME RULE STATEMENT OF ALLEN WEINSTEIN, CO-CHAIRMAN OF HOME
RULE COMMITTEE, WASHINGTON CONGRESS OF RACIAL EQUALITY.

Mr. Chairman, my name is Allen Weinstein. I live at 133 7th St., SE., Washington, D.C. I represent the Washington branch of the Congress of Racial Equality, which strongly urges Congress to enact legislation at its next session granting Home Rule to the District of Columbia.

CORE feels that Home Rule is unquestionably a Civil Rights problem. Since Negroes compose a majority of Washington's population, local self-government will bring a concerted effort to eliminate the remaining stains of racial discrimination in the District's housing, employment and educational patterns. This Committee is aware that Washington lost Home Rule following the Civil War in large measure because of the fear of Negro suffrage. At that time, Congress unquestionably deferred to prevailing public opinion. Today, however, when racist opinions no longer reflect the sentiment of the overwhelming majority of Washington residents, the District remains politically powerless.

The people of Washington do not have the ability at present to lobby effectively for Home Rule through the political means available to other American citizens. It is doubtful that many Congressmen would lose support by opposing Home Rule; it is not an issue that vitally affects your constituents. Furthermore, CORE agrees with Congressman Williams' candid and realistic approach to these hearings. He has responded to previous testimony not only by seeking to clarify the opinions expressed but by questioning the identity of the witnesses and their position in the community. This is both fair and somewhat devastating, since in a city like Washington with only rudimentary local political organization, it is difficult to determine which groups, if any, truly represent the general consensus of the people. None of us today can pretend to speak for that largely unorganized majority of Washington citizens.

Washington CORE, however, along with other Civil Rights and civic organizations in the District, intends to demonstrate to Congress the widespread community demand for Home Rule. As we have noted, those who testify at this hearing do so without any specific mandate from the people of Washington. We intend to ask for that mandate: to petition for Home Rule, call for it in Convention, walk for it in the streets, picket for it, march for it and shout for it - so that this Committee and Congress can be clear as to the sentiments of the people in the District.

In regard to the several Home Rule bills now before this committee, CORE sees merit in H.R. 5732 and H.R. 5794, both of which we could endorse with certain modifications. On this point, we request the committee's permission to submit a separate statement within the next few days discussing our position on these bills more fully. However, we do object strenuously at this time to the bills submitted by Representative Kyl, H.R. 5564, feeling that it would bring Home Rule only at the expense of endangering, potentially, the civil rights of a majority of Washington citizens. CORE is not interested in exchanging whatever gains in civil rights ~~were~~ already made in Washington through hard work and community support for the municipal status of a Cambridge, Maryland. The people of Washington will gain more, we believe, by limited Home Rule as proposed in the several other bills than by retrocession, at least in so far as their civil rights are concerned.

We do not wish to take up any more of the Committee's time except to express the fervent hope that once the people of Washington have clearly indicated support for their just, constitutional right to local self-government, a right taken from them in the past, perhaps Congress will then recognize the necessity for swift action on Home Rule for the District of Columbia.

Respectfully submitted,

Allen Weinstein
